Monday, February 6, 5:00pm

San Jose City Hall, 200 E. Santa Clara St, Wing Rooms 118-120

JOIN US and explore how the various facets of the health of our cities – economic, environmental, and social – intersect. Neil Maizlish, PhD with the California Department of Public Health will present his recent study that highlights the environmental and health benefits of active transport in the Bay Area. Afterward, we'll break out into groups by city to discuss strategies for how we can make our communities economically, environmentally, and socially healthier and more resilient. No charge, open to the public, refreshments provided.

WHO Decision makers, community leaders, labor, developers, affordable housing advocates, business leaders, environmentalists
